Decision Against Fencing.

DENVER, Aug 23—The farmers fence case was decided to-day in the district court by Chief Justice J B Belford. The case has been the subject of much discussion among the stockmen here and by the interior land department at Washington. The decision, if upheld by the superior courts, will affect in a radical manner the stock raising business in Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico and Kansas. No decision has ever been made on the question, and Judge [illegible] opinion forms a precedent. The case is that of the United States vs A Swan and others. It is a bill in equity asking for an injunction to abate a fence which had unlawfully inclosed eleven sections of government lands and to restrain the defendants from erecting other such fences on like unoccupied portions of the public domain. This was brought as a test case, and was twice very elaborately argued by Brown United States district attorney for Colorado and Benson United States attorney for [illegible] for the United States and by Carlett and Rosen [illegible] for the defendant. The case has been under advisement for one month and with the result that the fences must be removed. The opinion is elaborate, and carefully prepared. It cites and relies on [illegible] the decisions of Lords Arden and Cottenham in England and the decisions of the supreme courts of Pennsylvania, Georgia, Alabama, Wisconsin and Michigan, and the case of the United States versus Duluth, reported in [illegible], on being the decision of Judge Miller, of the supreme court of the United States, on cognate questions, and concludes that the unlawful fencing of large tracts of the public lands constitutes, first, a great public wrong, second, a public nuisance and third that it is in the nature of purpresture at common law and so is remediable or restrainable by the all powerful injunction issuing out of a court of equity as more appropriate and convenient and with the right of equity and justice than any more remedy at law or a resort to the physical force of the war department.

Witnesses in the James Trial Threatened.

KANSAS CITY, Aug 22—A Gallatin special [illegible] community was thrown into a high state of excitement to-night by the [illegible] becoming known that two of the most prominent citizens of Gallatin—[illegible] Davis and Alex Irving—who are witnesses in the James trial, had received threatening notices through the postoffice. Both men were active in their efforts to capture the murderers of Captain Sheets in 1869, and took part in the pursuit and had a running fight with the James party at the residence of Mrs. Samuels. The notes were dropped into the office addressed to each man, written by the same hand, and ran thus:

"[illegible] had better be careful about your evidence against Frank James.

A FRIEND."

These notes have aroused a strong feeling among the citizens, many regarding it as a cowardly system of intimidating witnesses, while the theory of James' friends is that the notes were written by his enemies to prejudice public sentiment against him. One thing is assured: the witnesses for the state cannot be intimidated by such a course. It is learned to-night that the attorneys for the defense will take full time for challenging jurors and the jury will not be impanneled until Friday, hence the court tomorrow will simply meet and adjourn until that day.

LATER—A meeting of James' counsel has just been held and they bitterly denounce the letters to Irving and Davis as a trick on the part of his enemies to excite popular opinion against him and the public denial of such methods as emanating from friends of their client.

Australian View of the Wool Tariff

CHICAGO, Aug 23—Sidney Parkes, a member of the colonial parliament, Australia, who arrived from San Francisco, [illegible] of the duty on Australian wool [illegible] The Australians considered it a hardship [illegible] United States to keep up a tight tariff [illegible] free trader [illegible] I don't want [illegible] the American public [illegible] a fair type of duty [illegible] South Wales, when I say everything [illegible] and goods [illegible] and on spirits, which [illegible] by the United States [illegible] protection [illegible] the American wool [illegible]

"Does the American tariff on wool act as a prohibitory tariff to your people?"

"No, because Australian wool is imported there. There are a few manufacturers in San Francisco who turn out woolen goods equal to any in the world and some of their blankets are the best I ever saw. In manufactured goods they are obliged to mix the Australian wool with American wool, because they could not produce such goods without Australian wool, it being finer than any wool grown in America."

"Did the reduction in duty on wool by the American congress help you any?"

"Slightly, but very slightly."

The Sunday Law in Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, Aug 19—The continuance of the cases of the violators of the Sunday law before the court of criminal correction during the past two weeks seems to have increased the confidence of the saloon and small shop-keepers, and more beer and wine saloons and cigar and other small shops were open to-day. The police reports to-night kept up a to-day. Governor Crittenden, who returned home from his western tour yesterday, seems to be quite indignant at the course of the saloon keepers here, and asserts very emphatically that the law must be enforced, and, if necessary, he will send the attorney general down here to assist in prosecuting the cases now before the courts.

Canadian Pacific Officials En Route West

ONTARIO, July 22—A distinguished party of English and Canadian stock holders in the Canadian Pacific railroad arrived to-day. Among the party are President Geo Stephens, [illegible] McIntyre and R [illegible] Angus of the Canadian Pacific, Prince Hohenlohe of [illegible] Count Gleichen, London; Earl Tabam, Lord Elphinstone and Lord Castletown of London and a large number of Canadian Pacific officials. They leave for St. Paul to-morrow, thence to Winnipeg, and from there to Minnetonka and Emerson, where they will strike the Canadian Pacific and will proceed over it to Calgary, 900 miles west of Winnipeg. The party is travelling in a splendidly equipped train.

Precautions against Yellow Fever.

WASHINGTON, Aug 22—The result of the house to house inspection ordered by Surgeon General Hamilton at Pensacola, which commenced this morning, was the finding of two cases of yellow fever in a seaman boarding house on Palafox street wharf. The surgeon general directed that the patients be removed to the quarantine hospital on St Rosa island. The bedding and clothing in the house were destroyed, and the house fumigated and surrounded by guards. The cases were reported by Acting Assistant Surgeon White to-day. A boat was immediately chartered by the collector of customs, and the cases removed to the quarantine hospital in accordance with the surgeon general's order.

Distinguished Tourists

MONTREAL, Que, Aug 2.—The directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company arrived by special train over the grand trunk, accompanied by a party of capitalists of this country and Europe from a trip over the Canadian Pacific road. Among the members are Prince Hohenlohe and Province Admiral Count Gleichen of Germany, Earl Latham, Lords Elphinstone, Castleton and Aulton of England, members of parliament, as well as representative of the United States and the dominion. The distinguished tourists go to the Rocky Mountains and return in three weeks.

Memphis Never Healthier

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug 22.—A large number of telegrams were received to-day from different points asking whether the yellow fever had appeared in this city. It is supposed here that the rumor was circulated for speculative purposes, as no apprehension is felt regarding the fever. Memphis was never healthier and every preparation has been made to guard against the dissemination of the disease, even if it should get a lodgment at points below.

"No Warrantable Evidence."

KANSAS CITY, Mo, Aug 22—Marshal Murphy received Governor Crittenden's letter to-day, calling his attention to the report of an approaching prize fight. The marshal then visited Independence where Herbert Slade is now stopping and returned to-night. He finds no warrantable evidence of preparation for a prize fight and therefore cannot take official action in the matter.

Support Refused.

NEW YORK, Aug 23—At a session of the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions this morning a resolution was adopted refusing the legislative support of the federation authority to support the cigar makers in their fight to secure the enforcement of the law passed by the last New York legislature prohibiting the manufacture of cigars in tenement houses. It is said that the manufacturers in that city contest the constitutionality of the law.

Fatal Fever from Bad Drainage

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug 23.—Malaria has appeared at several towns in New Hampshire, and many people are ill. Mr. J. Weis, a wealthy man, died at his cottage yesterday from malignant typhoid fever. His servants and family are ill. Defective drainage is supposed to be the cause of the trouble. Mrs. Ward, a guest at Rye Beach, also died yesterday.

A Monument at Washington's Birthplace.

WASHINGTON, Aug 19—Colonel Casey went to Westmoreland county, Va., last week and visited the Washington homestead for the purpose of selecting a site for the monument which is shortly to be erected at the birthplace of Gen Washington. The site selected is about 300 yards from the house in which Washington was born.

Quarantined Against Pensacola.

MOBILE, Ala., Aug 23.—Upon reception of the news of the discovery of yellow fever at Pensacola, the Mobile board of health recommended the establishment of quarantine against that place and the government reservation. A proclamation was accordingly made.

Fever Increasing

WASHINGTON, Aug 23.—A telegram to the secretary of the navy from Pensacola dated the 22d, says: There is a new case to-day, a child of Paymaster Brown, no deaths. Surgeon Owen is dying.

THE CYCLONE'S WORK.

Additional Particulars of the Terrible Catastrophe in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Aug 22—A cyclone struck Rochester at [illegible] yesterday and demolished about thirty houses and damaged 500 more. The names of the killed as far as known are: Chas. [illegible], John M. Cole, Mrs McQuillan, Thomas [illegible], Mrs Beurrath, August Beurrath, Mrs Osborn and an infant, Mr Fred Clough, Mrs Wetherel, Mr [illegible] and Mr Hi[illegible], also Mrs Quinn and child, Miss M. [illegible]. Those with four unidentified have been brought to the undertakers. Six others have been taken in care of by friends. Dodge and Olmstead counties suffered terrible damage. It is impossible to give a estimate of the damage to the city and counties of Rochester. One-third of which was destroyed last night. The town is situated about eighty-five miles south of St Paul on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad and is a beautiful little city of 5000 or 6000 inhabitants. Most of the houses are brick and many were stately business blocks.

Indefinite dispatches reached here early in the evening of the terrible effect of the cyclone. The first authentic account was received here this afternoon by passengers on incoming trains but even they know no particulars. At 10 o'clock the governor received the following

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug 22.

To Governor Hubbard, St Paul—Rochester is in ruins. Twenty-five people are killed and over fifty seriously injured. One third of the city is laid waste. We need immediate help.

W. MILLER, Mayor.

In less than thirty minutes $5000 were raised and sent to aid the sufferers. Telegrams have been sent to all cities in the state, calling on them for aid.

SEVERE WIND STORM IN WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug 22—Dispatches from the northern and central part of the state report great damage from a wind storm last night. At Stevens Point, and in Wood county, crops, fences and buildings and mill dams were torn to pieces. An old man in Wood county was seriously but not fatally injured by flying debris. The [illegible] Stockton and Newhope were visited by a terrible hail storm. Corn, oats and hops were badly damaged. Live stock was killed at several points by flying rails. In Brown county in and around Green Bay the wind and hail did similar damage. No loss of life is reported.

The Cyclone's Track.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug 22.—The cyclone of Tuesday night started near Owatonna and followed a line nearly a mile south of the railroad crossing it at Rochester and following north of the road twenty-five miles, three miles north of the railroad. It varied in width from one to three miles and did not shift as usual, but made a clean sweep in its track of houses, barns and crops. As far as heard from six persons were killed outside of Rochester, and the loss to crops is estimated at $300,000.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

Camped for the Night at Camp Strong, on Snake River.

CAMP STRONG, Wyo., Aug 21, via Bozeman, M. T., Aug 23.—Reveille call at 5 A. M. awoke us all from a refreshing sleep, though the ice in the buckets showed that three-fourths [illegible] had been none too many during the night for our comfort. Half past six found all the tents struck and packed on the mules, and the general order party in the saddle. The ride to-day of thirty miles lay nearly northward over the foothills of the Snake mountains, avoiding the marshy bottoms of the Snake river, which are very treacherous. It was a rough and rugged country over which for nearly three-quarters of the distance travelled over through dense tracts of burned and fallen timber. At noon we had had a sparsely timbered knoll which commanded a view of Jackson lake with the snow covered mountains rising from its shores in the background. The scene was wild and grand and repaid us for our severe but and dusty march in the early part of the day.

The omniscient reporter who claims to be with us and who has been purely a mythical personage since we left the railroad and Green river carefully and considerately located the secretary of war at Fort Washakie for an entire period after we started on our present trip across the mountains and as the secretary has never been absent it is a matter of much curiosity as to how the inventive genius of the fictitious special correspondent will be able to restore him to us. As a matter of fact Mr Lincoln has been one of the keenest daily observers of the resources of the country through which we are now passing, and is constantly and pleasantly reminding us of his presence. This evening we are camping at the crossing of Snake river which was named last year by General Sheridan Camp Strong. Our tents are pitched on the banks of the stream in a grove of lofty pines. Trout are abundant and the party are taking advantage of their last opportunity for fishing.

FIRES.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRES

MILWAUKEE, Aug 23—An Ashland dispatch says that forest fires are raging about the city all east and the place had a narrow escape from destruction. Mills were shut down and men turned out to try to fight the flames. The Omaha depot caught fire several times but was saved. One hundred men were sent in on the Omaha gravel train and were of tributes along the border of the town with citizens. At 4 P. M. a shower came up and the fire was extinguished.

A THROB AT FRANCE

LONDON, Aug 23.—The Times commenting on the Berlin North German Gazette's article referring to the attacks of French journals on Germany and declaring that France alone threatens the peace of Europe, says the course taken by the latter paper cannot be explained by the reason assigned as the French press upon the whole has been very moderate in regard to Germany.

The article of the North German Gazette has startled Paris, alarmed Europe, and caused prices on the bourses of Paris, Vienna and Berlin to fall. The papers everywhere express surprise at the Gazette's attack on France, and wonder what its object is. A French paper intimates that France is better prepared now to say that Bismarck is seeking a pretext for a war or for the importation of a fresh army.

THE JERSEY LILY

LONDON, Aug 19.—Mrs. Langtry looks fagged and faded. She has engaged passage for America. She will play short engagements in Canada and New York and will then go to Australia. She hopes for the same success which attended her former foreign venture and says that the dream of her life is to be able to return to England and found a theater in London, which she would call The Langtry.

A Prince's Power to Kill

London Daily News

An important state trial has recently taken place at Rangoon. A Shan prince sojourning in British Burmah, being prosecuted at the sessions for murder, demurred to the jurisdiction of the court, averring that he was invested with the power of life and death over his subjects and retainers, and had therefore committed no crime under his laws. The British court of Rangoon, abiding by the Indian penal code, overruled the demurrer, and he was tried and found guilty. The case has since come on upon appeal before the special court, which, however, confirmed the finding and the sentence of death. Curiously enough the view taken by the prince of his prerogative appears to excite sympathy in organs representing native opinion. One paper called It Is and Bengal, for example, observes that it may readily be believed that as a Shan chief the accused thought nothing of cutting down one of his Shan followers who had done wrong, and that he honestly believed in his right. He went on to add that the argument of the appellate judges is far from convincing and is worth nothing in a court in which [illegible]. On these grounds a hope is expressed that Mr. Crosthwaite will see his way to a reprieve. Certainly this is what the viceroy will do in the case.

Legal Technicalities

Detroit Free Press

A fox who had been dug out of his den by a peasant, and was about to be knocked on the head, cried out: "Hold on, hold on, you are about to murder an innocent fox!" "But here are the feathers of my missing hens!" "Yes, I admit the presence of the hen's feathers, but deny the killing. Take me before the law. If I am guilty, the law will punish me." The peasant re-enlisted, and the fox was arraigned on the charge of murder. The case seemed clear enough when the prosecution rested, but the opposing counsel arose and remarked: "Your honor, the prosecution has failed to prove that all this occurred in the county. I move, and I demand my client's discharge." "I discharge the prisoner," said the judge, "and I would further warn the prosecution that it further weakened its case by not showing whether hens have feathers or bristles!" Moral—The dog probably killed the hens, and it's a wonder the prosecution didn't think of it.

You claim too much for Samaritan Nervine, says a skeptic. Its patrons claim just the opposite.

CALIFORNIA.

The Knights Templar Banquet

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 23.—The banquet given by the grand [illegible] of California to the grand officers and officers of the grand [illegible] at the Palace hotel this evening, was a very brilliant affair in all things except its [illegible]. This latter fact is in no manner due to the California commandery, but to the management of the hotel. The hall was handsomely decorated with the banners of the various commanderies of California, and the tables arranged in triple order were profusely laden with flowers. About 500 knights and invited guests were present. The knights were seated at [illegible] o'clock, but it was half past nine before the supper was [illegible] past eleven [illegible] was not half through. The first regular toast was to the Grand [illegible] of the United States, responded to by G[illegible] and Master Dean, who took advantage of the occasion to testify to the hospitality extended by the knights of the Pacific coast to their eastern companions. Other toasts followed, all of a like character, responded to by the grand officers of the [illegible] as an [illegible] eastern commanderies.

Movements of the First Cavalry Band

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 23.—To-day a part of the Oregon and Walla Walla [illegible] on an excursion to Santa [illegible] the band [illegible] cavalry band [illegible] Walla Walla to the quarters of the different commanderies. This morning by special request the First cavalry band gave a promenade concert in the court of the Palace hotel, which drew together the largest mass of people ever gathered in the inner court. Members of the Oregon and Walla Walla commanderies were escorted by the band to the hotel. They finished the day's enjoyment with a visit to the pavilion to witness the drill of St Bernard commandery of Chicago.

The Jury in the Valencia Case Fail to Agree.

SAN RAFAEL, Aug 19.—The Valencia case was given to the jury at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. They were locked up all night, and this morning sent for Judge Bowers, and stated that they were unable to agree, but the judge declined to let them go. At 10 this morning, having failed to agree they were kept until to-morrow, when they will be discharged. They stood seven for manslaughter, four for acquittal, and one for murder in the second degree. It is reported on the street to-day that evidence has been discovered which substantiates the defendant's statement of self-defense.

Game Won by Sexton.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 22.—At the cushion carom game of billiards, a Metropolitan temple this evening of 400 points for $500 between Sexton and Schaefer, was won by the former after playing nine innings. Schaefer scored 263, Sexton's best run 46. Schaefer's time 1 hour 20 minutes.

ARIZONA.

Depredations of the Apaches

TUCSON, Aug 19.—The special sent from here on [illegible] states that the authorities of Sonora had [illegible] whether official or private [illegible] depredations in Sonora since [illegible] Crook left [illegible] very serious, inasmuch as La Constitucion, the [illegible] paper of the government of Sonora, has published accounts of various massacres by Apaches [illegible]. Furthermore, the Mexican consul in this city has [illegible] letter from the secretary of state of Sonora giving an account of the killing of several Mexicans and [illegible] ranches destroyed by the Apaches since Crook left Sonora. This does not include the recently reported outrages of [illegible] which [illegible] is duly reported.

RIP VAN WINKLE'S REST.

Albany, N. Y., Evening Journal

From the [illegible] along up the mountain [illegible] Catskill Mountains [illegible] which have been a favorite resort of the past [illegible] years [illegible]. The new Hotel Kaaterskill [illegible] from Palenville [illegible] the state [illegible] feet [illegible] Kaaterskill [illegible] through [illegible] the babbling [illegible] The next moment the eye stretches off to the east across the Hudson river glistening like a silver thread in the distance, away into the Berkshire hills of Massachusetts and down the river as far as eye can see. On the top of the mountain Mr George Harding, a wealthy Philadelphia patent lawyer, devotes his time, energy and money to his pet plan of building the biggest mountain hotel in the world, the Hotel Kaaterskill. He dreams he has been growing into a quarrel with Mr Beach, proprietor of the Mountain house, four years ago, has been often told, has been carried out with Aladdin-like rapidity and brilliancy. Within ten months a five story hotel, with stately wings and piazzas and a frontage of 613 feet, and capable of accommodating 800 guests was erected and made ready for use on the summit of a hitherto wild mountain. The dining room can seat 1,000 guests and the kitchen room for 1,000 persons without inconvenience. The house is lighted by electricity and gas, has a running water, a steam laundry and maintains its own printing establishment. Of all Mr Hardy's achievements the road up the mountain side is perhaps the greatest. Although prominent engineers declared it impossible to make a way for wagons and carriages up the steep wooded sides of the peak the drive was ready when the house was [illegible], forms a capital illustration of the way he carried out his purpose regardless of cost, the expense of this undertaking having been about a quarter of a million dollars. It is said [illegible]. He is reported to have laid out nearly three times that amount in all on the Kaaterskill and its surrounding, and contemplates other improvements which will swell the total to a million. He calculates of course to [illegible] a return for his investment, but says he will not grumble if the annual receipts do not cover the expenses. Other millionaires have fast yachts, fast horses and country villas; why should not I have a hotel? he decreed. The Kaaterskill with its superior attractions will catch all the transient travel, but for the regular visitors the old Mountain house will remain [illegible] with a finer view than its more fashionable competitor, still has an irresistible charm, and some of its patrons who tried the Kaaterskill for one season are back this year at the old house.

The efforts to draw people to the Catskills are meeting with their reward. The travel thus far this summer has been greater than in any year past and the crowds are increasing daily. Before 1870 it is doubtful if 300 people went there in a season. Last year it is estimated that 100,000 were accommodated by the [illegible] boarders [illegible] is astonishing how many of the natives are ready to capture their share of the summer boarders. I received a list to-day of hotels and boarding houses in the Catskills, in which 300 hosts presented their bids for my patronage. It would seem as if every shanty which catches a whiff of the cool mountain breeze had become a hotel in the eyes of its owner. Certain it is that nearly every house in the whole mountain country will afford you shelter for a consideration. Prices range from $5 a week at the small country house to $5 a day in the gorgeous Hotel Kaaterskill. There are thirty one hotels in the mountains, which accommodate over 100 guests each and have a total advertised capacity of 8400. It is thought that 30,000 or 40,000 guests can now be accommodated at once at the various points throughout the mountains. If the expectations of the natives are fulfilled 175,000 to 200,000 people will enjoy the beauties of the region this year.

How to Walk.

An English woman in Chicago engaged in teaching calisthenics lays down the following as cardinal principles in the art of walking:

To walk upon the sole instead of the heel of the foot. Nine out of every ten persons walk upon the heel. It communicates a jar to the spine which is very injurious while placing the ball of the foot down first will result in a gliding and graceful walk. The English and French are the most graceful walkers because their mothers give them proper teaching when they are young. All of the bad ways which characterize the Americans and the Germans are due to the fact that no care is taken with them when they are infants. They are allowed to walk before their limbs are strong enough to bear them, and they are also left a great deal to themselves. The mothers should guide them and teach them to walk and they would not be so [illegible].

The Modern Jenkins

Boston Journal

Geo. Wm. Curtis, in the Easy Chair of Harper's for August, discourses pleasantly of the qualities and accomplishments of the modern Jenkins. The journalism treating him from somewhat novel point of view, the gentleman finds [illegible] as much as he is ready to give [illegible] and as varied an assortment of [illegible] is given by Mrs. [illegible] by Mrs. Ten Millions. Mr. Curtis, instead of wondering why the Jenkins of other people's clothes and [illegible] wear old look upon the indefatigable Jenkins as a public benefactor who reminds us that fine freedom fortunate country butchers and bakers and candle stick makers of every degree may amass huge fortunes and rival in ostentatious expenditure the most barbaric of Asiatic rulers and that in the customs of a hereditary society [illegible] whom Mr. Curtis' philosophy [illegible] not so great a mystery as to his opponent, as some people appear to understand. His business quite [illegible] man who is engaged in a more [illegible] knows what his market is and [illegible] and sets up good ink and paper about the dress and movements [illegible] or are supposed to be, in society, knows that he has a large constituency who prefer that sort of thing to anything else; that he could give them. If the archives of society journals could be thrown open to the public eye there would be an incredible number of petty artifices and tricks [illegible]. We may inveigh against Jenkins, we may laugh at him, we may depreciate him, but his existence and his methods are explained by the constantly increasing demand for the matter which he produces. The First Public Prayer in Denver

Denver News

Father Dyer, a Methodist minister, now living in the Divide, was the pioneer preacher of Colorado. He will probably offer the opening prayer of the preaching quarter centennial. It is related of Father Dyer that when he first landed in Denver he saw before him a large audience, supposing a camp meeting to be in progress he wended his way there to attend. He found that it was a gambling [illegible] but a very [illegible] game such as faro, poker, keno [illegible] forward. He remained about eight hours, looking very intently at the games. After the prayer had been concluded the games were resumed.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

Headers are used but little in Yamhill county, most of the grain being cut with the self binding binders.

Crops in the vicinity of Amity, Yamhill county, are better than was expected and are turning out from thirty to forty bushels per acre.

All farmers in the vicinity of North Yamhill are happily disappointed as the grain is turning out much better than they had expected.

A gentleman who has just returned to Portland from a trip through Polk county stated to an Oregonian reporter that the crops were turning out much better than was anticipated. Farmers generally are feeling greatly encouraged.

A Blackburn of Carlton, says the Yamhill Reporter, is running a thrasher and informed us one day this week that he had threshed for many and that the average yield in his section will be from twenty to thirty bushels per acre.

A correspondent writing from Dayton, Yamhill county, says: "I hear favorable reports from the wheat crop from all parts of the county. Mortgage Brothers thresh a forty acre field which yield an average of thirty-five bushels to the acre. George Knapp also reports that one field yielded a thirty six bushels per acre, while we heard of one that is yielding under twenty bushels. [illegible] the prospect for raising a good yield [illegible] wheat is making the average farmer [illegible]."

Says the Yamhill Reporter: "We have not at hand sufficient data on which to base [illegible] any considerable amount [illegible] a rain, but a few items that [illegible] observation will [illegible]. RICHES, LUXURY, BEAUTY.

Their Moral Uses, as Explained by Henry Ward Beecher.

RICH GOOD ADVICE TO YOUNG PEOPLE.

The Higher Life Always to be Sought—Abuse of the Lower Instincts—What Constitutes True Self-Denial.

The second lecture which was delivered last evening at New Market theater by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher was if anything better attended than the first. Every available seat was taken, and there was some complaint about people who [illegible] first [illegible] which rightfully belonged to others [illegible] only [illegible] a few people were obliged to [illegible] the theater [illegible] was forgotten in the pleasure afforded by the lecture. Probably one-half of the audience had not heard the speaker upon his first appearance in this city and the prevailing sentiment among those was that while the first lecture [illegible] deeper or possibly contained more [illegible] so valuable [illegible] at large as the one upon the Moral Uses of Riches, Luxury and Beauty. [illegible] Mr. Beecher's second appearance upon the rostrum fully verified to all [illegible] opinions of both [illegible] everything that [illegible] regarding his greatness of mind and [illegible] of last night.

The [illegible] was introduced by Major Pond in a few words and spoke as follows:

[illegible] practical common sense which [illegible] to the getting of property [illegible] the ways for getting wealth [illegible] and [illegible] a moral teacher [illegible] those ways, but it is becoming in a moral teacher that he should [illegible] take to redeem men from this feverish search for wealth and show them something better.

There is something about us as we [illegible] we are so constituted as to be all the [illegible] happiness. This is true with everything about [illegible] except us in our religion. Men are worked [illegible] by awe more than by love. Men go to church nowadays very much as they go to the insurance office—for fear of future fire. This formative principle has come down to us from the old [illegible] times. The great controlling principle of the renaissance was activity. The great controlling principle of the reformation was moral activity.

There are [illegible] ways of measuring a man—what he [illegible] and what he is worth. [illegible] What really is man worth? [illegible] the world great [illegible] of the greatest worth [illegible] the [illegible] who, when dead, [illegible] great discoveries are [illegible] not a great [illegible] known as skilled workmen [illegible] capable of thinking [illegible] capable of taking [illegible] reducing them to things. Then comes [illegible] larger class [illegible] day laborers—men that cannot contribute ideas, men that eat as much as they produce. About them we say "The world [illegible] quiet. [illegible] belong to the lowest [illegible] a greater class—over one-half of the [illegible]. It is worth what he can contribute [illegible] half of this world's labor [illegible] I am not speaking now of the people around your happy doors, but of [illegible] of the many uncivilized [illegible]. Why you not think the whole condition of Africa [illegible] the exception of a little, [illegible] work is a little spot [illegible] you would not have one in [illegible] upper [illegible] that the men are that made them [illegible] worth [illegible]. It cannot [illegible] as to recreate [illegible] worth such [illegible]. You [illegible] [illegible] conditions. Men are in the ways of [illegible] things that the stars [illegible] upon.

[illegible] of [illegible] men [illegible] all [illegible] of [illegible]

[illegible] WEALTH [illegible]

[illegible] a feeling [illegible] something [illegible] [illegible] worth [illegible] a man [illegible] a [illegible] with [illegible] a [illegible] value which [illegible] [illegible] something [illegible] capable [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] man [illegible] two means [illegible] have [illegible] [illegible] needs [illegible] Jesus [illegible] with the lands [illegible] [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] he [illegible] must [illegible] man [illegible] still [illegible] [illegible] when [illegible] the [illegible] What will be the outcome of it? Who can tell what the strain under the Arctic zone would become if not [illegible] by a tropical sun? As an animal, man [illegible] germs [illegible] within him that will rise him above the stars. The poor at black [illegible] laugh at and despise must in the light of the very [illegible] be [illegible] the [illegible] of us all. For the last shall be first and the first shall be last.

This was the doctrine of the reformation and the Puritans were the first to catch it up. In the work of [illegible] the [illegible] people [illegible] in their habits [illegible] the Puritans found that anyone [illegible] had no [illegible] could these [illegible]. This was why the Puritans held amusement and pleasure. Amusement had been given to them by the Muses and the [illegible] the loose [illegible] for which men were to sell their birthright. For their acquiescence in [illegible] other matters they were to have amusements [illegible] and [illegible]. This is why the Puritans hated it. In what last it been is for it the present [illegible] with their [illegible] And if I had lived in those days I would have been a Puritan—I would! If I had been in my right mind. In addition to the above [illegible] I [illegible] the Puritans that they were destroyers of art. So they were, but the very harsh windows in those days were nothing but a tell [illegible] Roundheads [illegible] smashed windows. People say they had wanted these things would have come to our right of the crown. [illegible] No [illegible] would have wanted if they could. I have [illegible] forward [illegible] backward.

When the Puritans came to New England they brought with them this fundamental idea—man [illegible] must not be neglected nor [illegible]. "Alas!" but in their creed [illegible] and [illegible] the sense of beauty. [illegible] left out. That they were afraid of all this. It had [illegible] them in superstition and bound them in [illegible] When the old Puritan founded his belief he went to [illegible] pattern for the basis of [illegible] the superstition. There were no bare humanity. I never saw a picture in New England until I was 21 years of age—and then I saw [illegible]. The Puritan had a fear of riches, for he believed they were the emanation of the devil. You ask of me what the Puritan has done for us. I can point in reply to all the democratic institutions of this land. Every state in this union is from the loins of the Puritans. They have given us our polity and the government which they founded [illegible] has always been an invitation to the poor and oppressed of other lands to seek a refuge here.

This [illegible] kind of wisdom which the Puritans had restricted [illegible] the brain, but the heart, and the [illegible] to the form of [illegible] and industry. And ever since that [illegible] has been [illegible] amusement. That he has [illegible] collection and distribution.

Another element, the ascetic, entered into the Puritan's composition. He believed implicitly the story of Adam and Eve, and their fall, and that every one was cursed for sins which they never committed. He believed that the whole nation was lost, and moved [illegible] such an one that if repentance at the present day, the people would shut him up in a penitentiary. He made him such an one that he was worse than Dante or Milton ever made Satan. These [illegible] believed in had not everything. Man never had anything. He never had anything to lose. What has the little babe to lose when it enters upon this life? It has everything to gain.

But when out this belief the ascetic thought he must wear sackcloth and mortify the flesh. This element of religion was introduced, was going to the last degree. This [illegible] was followed by the metaphysical reading of the scriptures. "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven." This was said in Palestine, where every one was poor. It is like the Lord's prayer. You are perplexed. "Give us this day our daily bread"? I hope you will say the prayer in a [illegible] way but what [illegible] the use of a man asking for his daily bread when he has six months' provisions in his house? [illegible] not [illegible] when it was first uttered. It was a daily prayer, poverty—bread was [illegible] I mean that there was no wealth in Palestine, but the tax gatherers had it all. They were the [illegible] upon the [illegible] people. They [illegible] the juice from a bunch of grapes. When Christ spoke these words about rich men everybody knew what he meant. [illegible] every other meaning will be the greatest perversion of the scriptures.

[illegible] first [illegible] he was [illegible] In his soul [illegible] the [illegible] he who taught him to satisfy hunger by work. Now what is poverty? It is certainly not having less than anybody else. When man first began to create property, in his primitive state, he has nothing but his hands. The day laborer brings into market nothing but bone and muscle. He has no other capital and is on a level with the ox, etc. The ox only has more capital than he. If he has nothing else he must stand at the bottom. He [illegible] be contented. He must stand there. But while faring very badly in this condition here comes that [illegible] and the instruction which teaches him that he must live within his earnings. If he makes but a dollar a day he must deny himself and live upon half of it. If he makes but fifty cents a day he must live upon half of that. By means of this vigorous self-denial he can earn enough to buy a spade. Now, man is an animal plus a spade. He earns more, and saves more, until finally he is enabled to purchase a plow; it is an animal plus a space [illegible] more [illegible] When he [illegible] he [illegible] upon [illegible] strength [illegible] a [illegible] sort [illegible] a petit household [illegible] he [illegible] a higher [illegible] for these [illegible] he [illegible]

The basis of every [illegible] is [illegible] self-denial is the [illegible] that makes him [illegible] the [illegible] has drawn a dollar [illegible] wealth [illegible] they [illegible] wait [illegible] they [illegible] left out. They say their [illegible] and they want it. And [illegible] are [illegible] now at the bottom of society but [illegible] they wish to [illegible] at [illegible] and [illegible] and yet have [illegible] No one will prosper [illegible] so that [illegible] upon the higher.

The lecturer here took occasion to illustrate his proposition by two incidents within his knowledge [illegible] of a young German in a western state who a few years [illegible] himself a home and [illegible] a [illegible] once [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] with which [illegible] worth the [illegible] what a German would throw away. And a Chinaman lives on what a German would throw away [illegible] [illegible] is what [illegible] has been about it [illegible] when the Chinaman [illegible] came over [illegible] would have voted the disfranchisement [illegible] right [Great laughter.]

A man who has lived forty years and has no competence [illegible] violated the fundamental laws of morality [illegible] [illegible] dismiss [illegible] the question of property. Of wealth. The question now arises as to the moral uses of riches, of luxury and beauty. [illegible] wealth [illegible] [illegible] that men call [illegible] that are simply laid up, and that are [illegible] squandered [illegible]. Money is like [illegible] till it gets off. A man who has the amount of property [illegible] and does not enjoy it [illegible] like a watch [illegible] his own property [illegible] I should go [illegible] to the country and stop at a farm house and [illegible] farmer would say to [illegible] Come [illegible] out to the barn. I have something I [illegible] show you [illegible] would [illegible] and there [illegible] would point out to me a [illegible] down—all of [illegible] carefully [illegible] away [illegible] so large [illegible] that you [illegible] thousand [illegible] [illegible] he says [illegible] I am just seeing them [illegible] invoice [illegible] which tells me that I have [illegible] going [illegible] by the next steamer. Why, every [illegible] would say that such a storing up of [illegible] would be the height of folly. Yet it is no different from the act of the man who hoards up a riches all his wealth. The man who hoards up a riches does not [illegible] then is nothing but a brute. He [illegible] round the corner, [illegible] that he [illegible] but and ragged coat. He looks as though he just escaped from some [illegible] almshouse [illegible] you would think so. Well, a [illegible] he [illegible] countries. He is not fond [illegible] soon wear old clothes. [illegible] a just a [illegible] would be [illegible].

[illegible] bright, shining [illegible] How I believe in [illegible] beautiful [illegible] on the [illegible] in [illegible] wife [illegible] your [illegible] very [illegible] [illegible] Worth [illegible] on the top [illegible] would [illegible] any good either. If the world were to [illegible] to an old next, [illegible] all the trumpets of the angels were now [illegible] I believe a woman would follow the fashion. [illegible] She has a long train. She [illegible] of beauty. While [illegible] and frilling, the other portions of her dress, [illegible] destroying all the lines of beauty [illegible] many a time [illegible] in a train [illegible] I have [illegible] for those [illegible] I am not a very [illegible] I [illegible] one of [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] at [illegible] he [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] children [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] duty [illegible] [illegible] to see that [illegible] with their wants [illegible] with at a place [illegible] [illegible] No community is [illegible] without a [illegible] any [illegible] [illegible] It [illegible] more [illegible] Banquets are not a luxury [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] is what [illegible] luxury.

[illegible] your experience [illegible] everything—reduce the animal [illegible] the [illegible] of health [illegible] to the [illegible] like [illegible] [illegible] that has to [illegible] if [illegible] an educational value [illegible] encouraged by keeping [illegible] from [illegible] If anything [illegible] taste [illegible] Rings and diamonds are [illegible] should be enjoyed. Pure Blood

PYEMIA, SEPTICEMIA, SCROFULA and other forms of blood poison, with glandular swellings, ulcerations in the throat and mouth, abscesses, carbuncles, tumors, ulcers, sores and skin eruptions are [illegible] neutralized and expelled by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, the new blood purifier, while the skin is [illegible] all disfiguring humors by the external use of CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP, the great skin cures. CUTICURA RESOLVENT absolutely destroys disease germs which float in the blood, urine and perspiration—there is no doubt about it—and expels them through the bowels, kidneys and pores of the skin.

GREATEST ON EARTH.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of salt rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years and in fact died from it. I believe CUTICURA would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years which nothing relieved or cured until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally.

OUR SCHEME OF TAXATION.

An impression seems to prevail throughout the state, and particularly in the rural counties, that the main opposition to the mortgage tax law proceeds from banks and bankers; and this impression doubtless tends to confirmation of the purpose to sustain the law. But the supposition is a mistake. The commercial banks generally have no fault to find with the law. On the contrary they have every reason to be satisfied with it. They do not lend on mortgage, but on personal security, and the mortgage tax law therefore increases their business and their profits. This result is brought about in two ways. First, the effect of the law is to increase their deposits. Money, instead of being lent on mortgage, which would subject it to tax, is deposited in the banks, out of reach of taxation. The money thus driven into the banks, is used by the banks in their current business, and of course its use becomes a source of profit. A second effect in favor of the commercial banks arises from the increased demand upon them for money, resulting from the inability of borrowers to get it from outside parties upon mortgage. The money must be had, and the borrower must pay for getting it. Here the services of the broker are called in; and it is needless to say that the broker is a man who must be paid. He undertakes to obtain the money for the needy borrower and four times out of five he goes to the bank and gets it upon his own note, and discounts the note of his customer at a rate which pays him a heavy percentage upon the transaction. Cases of this kind are of daily occurrence. The mortgagee resolves to call in his money; the mortgagor must get the cash, and he must pay the broker to find it for him. The charge is seldom less than five per cent. Borrowers are paying every day this tribute to the mortgage tax law, and the banks are doing a business with good profit, which otherwise would not be offered them.

It is a mistake, therefore, to suppose that the banks generally want the law repealed. Of course, however, it is different with certain institutions, not properly called banks, which lend upon mortgage. The law stops their operations and virtually drives them out of business. At the same time it gives the broker a golden profit, and increases largely the business of the commercial banks. But while the latter do not object to the law, since it brings them business and profit, every active business man does object to it and does want it repealed because it is in the way of his getting money as his occasions require.

Again, in many instances the law produces double taxation. Take a savings and mortgage bank, which is assessed upon the full amount of its paid up capital stock. Every one of them is so assessed. But the money paid as capital stock in has been lent out on mortgage, and the mortgage is assessed also. Stockholders are thus paying taxes on their money and paying also upon the mortgages by which this very same money is represented. This is an inevitable result of the mortgage tax law, and the double taxation thus produced will alone prevent further association of capital for loaning purposes, and in time force every loaning institution in the state to dissolve and go out of business.

Taxation of credits is an excellent policy to drive money into hiding places and paralyze business. If this is the result aimed at the purpose is succeeding well. By a sharp turn in legislation an advantage may be secured which will force credits to pay the tax, but such result can be only temporary, because money in the long run will take care of itself, and even the temporary advantage over it is gained at the expense of a tight money market and of far more trouble and expense to the borrower than of loss to the lender. Taxation of credits signifies the destruction of credits, or at least a step in that direction and destruction or embarrassment of credits means the drying up of the sources of one-half the industrial enterprise and commercial activity of a state.

MARTIN LUTHER.

The celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of Martin Luther's birthday which occurs on the 10th of next November has already begun on both sides of the Atlantic. And it is gratifying to note that it is taking the form of an endeavor to appreciate Luther rather than that of indiscriminate laudation. Mr. Froude, who had previously published valuable articles on the subject among his "Short Studies on Great Subjects," has lately written an elaborate essay on the great German for the Contemporary Review. In this country a less discriminating biography in German, has been published by Mr. Grabner, while in Germany an excellent life of Luther has been written by Professor Kostlin. In addition to these literary efforts steps have been taken for the erection of a monument to Luther at Washington, and in Germany every city and town which has been made famous by him, has begun to celebrate events in his life by public meetings, processions and other ceremonies. The first of these has just occurred in Erfurt where he was welcomed by students as he journeyed three hundred and sixty-two years ago towards Worms, where he was to be the chief figure in one of the most memorable scenes of history. It was there that he affixed those famous theses to the church door, which exhibited so incredible a degree of interest in questions of right and wrong that Leo X light-[illegible] said, as he looked them over: "A drunken German has written them—when he is sober he will be of another mind."

This remark of the pope illustrates well the character of the reformation, in its broad sense, which Luther inaugurated. For it was as the dawn of a new civilization, rather than as a theological achievement that the reformation of Luther is chiefly valuable to the world. He was born four hundred years ago into a paganized, luxurious and unreal world, in which the idea of virtue was absent, and the senses had a complete and unquestioned ascendency over the soul—a world governed by princes who were destitute of moral sense, and priests who scarcely deigned to keep up the most slothful semblance of belief. The pope expressed the prevailing notion when he said a man must be drunk to bother himself about a question of morality and conscience. A man who discovered a new trick in seduction, or in ornamental design, was welcomed in palace and abbey, and sure of a reward; but a man who was troubled about his own sins, or the sins of the world, and ventured to talk about his concern for himself and fellow sinners, was a nuisance to be abated as Huss and Wycliff had been, and as more recently while Luther was a boy at school, Savonarola had been in the funeral pyre at Florence under the cruel eyes of the pope's representatives. There had been many men and women among the Lollards, the Albigenses and Waldenses who were not lacking in courage, and had risen in rebuke, but they were a comparatively "feeble folk." It had been an easy matter to dispose of them, and the revel went on.

At last there came this Luther, a prototype of Bismarck, of virile figure and dauntless face, with his roaring Berserker wrath, who hurled defiance at the pope, and confronted the emperor with those bold words: "Here I stand. I can do no otherwise; God help me." Then, the sensuous fabric of this pagan revival which had lain like a nightmare upon the conscience of Europe, rotting the mind and shriveling the soul, went down out of sight and the dark ages were ended. One stage of civilization ceased and another began.

This in a large sense is what Luther did for the world. It was the restoration of conscience to its throne, the awakening of the spiritual nature in man, rather than the introduction of free research, of individual freedom, and independence in matters of religious belief. For Luther insisted, as Prince Bismarck does, that the world must conform to his ideas, and when the world declined his answers were that arguments so much as anathemas and damnation. On many occasions he sent every body who did not fully agree with him to everlasting perdition. The conception of popular rights in matters of government, and of personal rights in matters of religion was not entertained by him. He probably could not have entertained it, and have done what he did for the world. Froude in his essays on the "Times of Erasmus and Luther," shows that it was Luther's earnestness and dogmatism which gave him his immense superiority over Erasmus, a man of more breadth and learning, but of a critical turn of mind, a latitudinarian, in short, who was constantly hampered and weakened for positive work by a disposition to look on both sides of a question, instead of looking, as Luther did, only at the side which he deemed the right side. It was Luther's moral earnestness which rendered him incapable of toleration. The same quality which reformers always possess and must possess to affect a careless or stupid world. His work was not mainly theological, though it is in this aspect of it that it has been most generally considered. It was a work of civilization, by which the Catholic has gained as well as the Protestant. Leo XIII. is no more like Leo X. than King William is like Charles V. It is as the emancipator of a race rather than as the founder of a sect that the world honors him.

These anniversary celebrations will, of course, call attention prominently to the distinctions between Catholic and Protestant, and on this subject we may have a word to say hereafter.

"Do they acknowledge it?" asked an eastern gentleman at New Tacoma, when told that there are forty lawyers among the 3,500 inhabitants of that zenith city of the salted sea. There is something very suggestive in the picture which one can form in his imagination of forty lawyers starting from different parts of the country, each one believing, or at least hoping, that he would be the principal man in the territory, and a United States senator when it is admitted as a state and sits meeting at Tacoma. One would think that they would wish to suppress the fact that they were lawyers and pretend that they were going to raising hops or selling groceries. To acknowledge that they are lawyers, with all that implies in such circumstances, evinces a moral courage which ought to win, and we trust it will. Now is the time for them to come out at once. They may not all become United States senators, but they all may be honest men and good citizens.

The Gentiles carried one county at the recent election in Utah and elected one member of the legislature. Only once before has a Gentile been elected to the Utah legislature, and that was from the portion of the territory which now constitutes the state of Nevada. At that time the Mormons refused to acknowledge the authority of the federal government or the validity of territorial legislation, and so, after passing a bill as members of the territorial legislature, they would resolve themselves into the legislature of the state of Deseret and pass the bill over again. They went through that performance during the entire session, much to the amusement of the Gentile member from the Nevada district.

The New York Graphic has this to say of one of Henry Ward Beecher's ideas: "Mr. Beecher says he believes 'the animal part of man was evolved from beings below him, while in spiritual value he is the son of God.' This explains some things. 'I am brave enough myself,' said a gentleman whose courage had been doubted, 'but the truth is I have a pair of legs I can't control, and they always run me out of danger.' So, while the spiritual part of man tends towards heaven, the animal carries him the other way. The trouble lies in his legs.

The strike is over, but Portland's telegraph service is worse than it was during the strike. If the Western Union cannot provide telegraphic service between this city and San Francisco, Portland can, and must organize the means to do it. The inattention to the interests of the north is simply outrageous.

A few years ago grain was shipped from our Atlantic ports to Europe almost wholly by sail vessels. Now the greater part of it is carried by steam. For example, during the year 1882, 39,678,449 bushels were carried from New York by steam vessels, while only 6,264,289 bushels went by sailing craft.

There are indications that a great many old line democrats in Massachusetts will sit on the fence, as republicans did last year, and see the procession pass by. This will certainly be the case if that great political misleader, B. F. Butler, is renominated for governor.

A great sugar refinery in Chicago has failed in consequence of the reduction of the price of sugars. There will be no like failure on this coast for that reason. One man has the sugar market by the throat, and the Hawaiian treaty enables him to make such prices as he likes.

TALK OF THE NEWSPAPERS.

Old port and Jamaica rum are the favorite tipple of the judges of the supreme court of the United States. The rum is taken as an appetizer and the wine mellows the law into an ideal romance.—San Francisco Examiner (Dem.)

There are always croakers and wreckers, men who see in every sign of the times omens of evil, either from a constitutional defect or from sinister motives. The business public should pay no heed to such enemies of society.—Chicago Inter Ocean (Rep.)

Neither Blaine nor Tilden may be a candidate for the presidency next year, but the political prophet who does not allow for their active influence is likely to be without honor in his own or any other country about the time tickets are made up.—Providence Press (Ind.)

There is a revival of the demand for federal control of the railroads and telegraph lines. * * * It would suit the owners of non-producing railroads, canals and telegraphs. And it would suit the stupendous political ring which would at once take hold of and run the entire machine.—Philadelphia North American (Rep.)

Jefferson Davis wants to make Jeremiah S. Black the next republican candidate for president he goes about his business in a very dexterous manner. Mr. Davis accuses Mr. Black of bringing on the civil war, which was the making of the republican party. The party can not go back on its maker.—Philadelphia Record (Ind.)

A statesman named Birdsall declares that Mr. Tilden defeated Hancock. We do not know Birdsall, but if our Uncle Sammy is as strong as Editor Watterson says he is, he must be full of human nature; and human nature, as we all know, is very weak. This is a paradox that the humblest of us can take home to our firesides for solution.

President Arthur is a queer accident in our political history. The office for which statesmen like Webster, Clay, Seward and Chase longed for which adroit politicians like Blaine, Tilden and Douglas worked in vain, fell into the lap of a man whose "claims" upon it would have been laughed out of court had they ever been seriously presented.

OPINIONS AND OPINIONS.

PORTLAND, Aug. 24, 1883.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It is a pity that your correspondent, "H. D.," cannot witness the development of a [illegible] man. He forgot that in order to do that he must have been born from one to two hundred thousand years sooner, and must have lived ever since. I advise him to go to the library [illegible] and get Darwin's "Origin of Species," Darwin's "Descent of Man," or Buchner's "Der Mensch [illegible] in der Natur," when he will be better informed. That some men develop themselves, "auch rückwärts," sometimes into hogs, apes and asses, is an undisputable fact; into the latter especially when they try to criticise men like Darwin, Haeckel or Buchner. The oldest fossil remains yet found came nearer to a monkey than our present [illegible] and they are estimated from 10,000 to 100,000 years old. Who knows how long it took to develop them into the perfection which they then enjoyed? The equines did not all get to be horses, for there are asses and some zebras, etc., etc. Similar it is with the human family. Some got to be Indians, some negroes, some developed themselves into our own (Caucasian) race, and a good many into different species of the monkey. A straight drop, your correspondent "H. D.," as it were, could not be moral and do good without expecting some "heavenly taffy" as a reward. D. A.

DORSEY AS A CAMPAIGNER.

New York Times.

A second installment of Dorsey's apparently inexhaustible budget of lies has been printed in the Sun, this publication being designed, it is claimed, to substantiate the first. It is unnecessary to say that Dorsey indorses all that Dorsey said in his previous communication. It is not material whether he wrote that farrago of venomous rubbish. It is not material whether his newest batch is an authentic interview. In any case, the two papers are alike in that they were written in his interest, that the allegations emanate from him and that they were as much his as the malignity, low cunning and mendacity, everywhere breathing through the lines are his. It is needless to pursue this poor creature, who slanders the dead and the living with impartial virulence. The structure of Dorsey's narrations, from top to bottom, rests upon the unsupported word of a notorious and conscienceless scamp whom no intelligent citizen would believe under oath, Dorsey vouches for the truth of his interminable gabble. Who will vouch for Dorsey?

Mr. S. W. Dorsey was a republican carpet-bag senator from Arkansas. He managed to get upon the national executive committee of his party. While in that position he rubbed himself against many decent gentlemen, some of whom suspected him as a thief and a blackmailer and some of whom believed him to be a decent man. As a member of the republican committee he was expected to do all that could be done to forward the interests of the party that had confided in him. But his talent for roguery and his natural proclivity to treachery made it necessary to watch him, and he eventually directed all his energies toward the forwarding of certain schemes of thieving from the United States government, mail contracts being his favorite means of robbery. Finally, he was detected, was arrested, indicted, and tried, and after two long and expensive trials he secured a nominal acquittal. Since that time, failing to understand how any member of his own party could denounce or prosecute him as a rascal, he has been ransacking his brains to invent reasons for the austerity with which he has been treated by an administration which he claims to have created, and by republicans who are supposed to owe him a debt of gratitude.

Dorsey, having magnified his party services beyond the bounds of reason and having falsified the little chapter of political history in which he had a place, has taken to the amusement of lying as a permanent business. This creature, whom no honest and candid man would believe under oath, is just now a prime favorite with the democratic party. Democratic newspapers parade his oft-told fables as if they were credible and would hold water. His slanders of the dead and the living are at this moment the sole stock in trade of small-bore politicians, who know that Dorsey is a liar and who believe him to be a thief. The exhibition is a pitiable one. Dorsey, convicted at the bar of public opinion, although escaping from justice, a dishonored and broken man, may be allowed to digest the venom of his spleen. It would be as idle to pursue his slanders as it would be to essay to rehabilitate his mildewed character. But decent people, who know how low the man has sunk and how effectually he has shown his baseness, refuse to give currency to his slanderous tales or credence to his malignant yarns.

The Sale of Monaco.

London Times.

A private letter from Mentone says: "It is announced that the Prince of Monaco is negotiating with the French government for the sale of his principality for 10,000,000 francs, subject to a recognition of the gaming tables concession till 1916." It seems incredible that France should agree to such a condition. The German gambling establishments were put down before the leases had expired, compensation being refused on the ground of the immorality and suffering which they had caused. The past and present relations of the principality to France gave her a perfect right to do away with the nuisance whether she buys up the principality or not. The Italian, German and English governments wish to have the tables suppressed, and public opinion throughout Europe has condemned their existence as a blot on the civilization of the nineteenth century. Along the Riviera people are complaining that property is rapidly decreasing in value, and many are ruined in consequence. There is consequently every reason why the international association should pursue its laudable crusade against Monte Carlo.

In Defense of Pie.

Indianapolis News.

The English can mix a mess of meat, potatoes and dough, a foot across and six inches deep, bake it, and when it is done, dig it out in chunks and eat it. They call it "pie," and it is allowable to eat that sort of thing—a mess of indigestible, unpalatable stuff, as witness Sam Weller's testimony to "veal pie," that it was like "[illegible] as does it." But when we propose to eat a bit of thin crust, fresh baked, with fruit making it perfectly digestible, then the army of dudes and the funny paragraphist of the newspaper must set up a moan at the provincial ignorance which would do so. It is time this sort of nuisance should expend itself. Pie is an American dish; it is palatable, convertible and digestible. Pie is the perfection of a lunch. Pie is healthful. Pie is good. If that be treason, make the most of it. Long live pie!

Extraordinary Memory.

Belgravia.

A teacher of mathematics named William Lawson, who died at Edinburgh in November, 1757, on one occasion, to win a wager made by his patron, undertook to multiply a number, in succession, the numbers from one to forty, without other aid than his memory. He began the task at 7 o'clock in the morning and finished at 6 in the evening, when he reported the product, which was tested on paper, and found to be correct. It made a line of forty-eight figures, and a fair copy of it long occupied a place on the wall of his patron's dining-room, for which it was framed and glazed. It may be added, that in the course of the day on which the mental calculation was made, Mr. Lawson received his pupils as usual and gave them their ordinary lessons in Latin.

Dr. Benson's Skin Cure consists of internal and external treatment at same time, and it makes the skin white, soft and smooth. It contains no poisonous drugs. $1, at druggists.

The Rev. Phoebe A. Hanaford was thrown from a carriage at Nantasket Beach, Boston Harbor, one day last week, and somewhat painfully injured.

The Wasp

Commenced its Eleventh Volume July 7th, 1883.

It has now a circulation of nearly 7500 copies, and is probably read by 100,000 persons every week.

It is the oldest cartoon paper printing colors in the United States, and the only one west of the Rocky Mountains. It therefore has a field all to itself.

Its editorials are brilliant, satirical, truthful and to the point. It is a hard hitter, independent of party, regardless of private friendships and destitute of personal animosity.

It is the best advertising medium on the Pacific coast, reaching every town in California, Oregon and the Territories.

Subscription to the WASP, one year $5.

Advertising, $3 per square per month.

Address, care Wells, Fargo & Co., Portland, Or.

CITY.

[illegible] FOUND—A day or two since Michael [illegible] who resides near the head of the canyon [illegible] three miles west of Canyon Gardens while [illegible] for his cows discovered [illegible] in a thicket [illegible] human skull in the county road about [illegible] yards from the [illegible] He sent the skull to the city [illegible] cattle trail [illegible] who did not [illegible] around to the [illegible] but left it with a butcher. A [illegible] a human head had been found [illegible] policemen Hudson and Simmons [illegible] to investigate [illegible] yesterday [illegible] They were shown the [illegible] where the skull had been found and upon search [illegible] the leaves and moss they found [illegible] of a human skeleton, a piece [illegible] braid of hair, about [illegible] of dilapidated boot [illegible] numbered 1129 [illegible] The chain [illegible] the hammer lay was [illegible] The skeleton was [illegible] The braid of [illegible] was fine and silky and the [illegible] bones seemed to indicate that [illegible] were those of a female, but [illegible] of small size wore long-legged [illegible] worn by men. The legs of [illegible] were found in fragments, but the feet were found [illegible] whole, and in each was the complete [illegible] The piece of garment found gives [illegible] may have been a vest or a cloth basque [illegible] It is very much decayed. The [illegible] is green with a coating of moss on one [illegible] and the skull is bleached white and sprayed [illegible] several days. They [illegible] exposed to the elements for several [illegible] but it is impossible to arrive at any [illegible] conclusion as to how long. Whether the [illegible] those of a suicide or whether the owner [illegible] or accidentally shot herself will also [illegible] forever remain a mystery. The bones [illegible] were brought to the police station [illegible] were inspected by many curious people.

[illegible] PARTY—A most enjoyable social event [illegible] last night at the residence of Mr M Rosen[illegible] corner Eighth and Alder, the occasion being a [illegible] party given to his son Mr Gus Rosenblatt, [illegible] had just attained his twenty first year. Shortly [illegible] the spacious parlors were filled with [illegible] happy hearts and smiling lassies [illegible] and amusements were indulged in until 11 [illegible] an elegant repast was served. Toasts were [illegible] by Messrs Ben Wolf, Leo Stock, Henry [illegible] Sol [illegible] and others [illegible] was again resumed until a late hour [illegible] Among those present were Misses Carrie [illegible], Minnie Simon, Dachetta Kaus, Lillie Kahn, Emma Friendly, Lillie Jacobs [illegible] Rosenblatt, Bertha Waldman, Miss Hess [illegible] Miss Friedenthal, Miss Blanch Kahn [illegible] Leo Stock, M C Lyon, L R [illegible] Wolf, H Rosenblatt, Chas Hat[illegible], L. [illegible] FOR THE CELEBRATION—Yesterday [illegible] the general committee having in charge the [illegible] celebration next month held a meeting in the [illegible] rooms at which considerable business [illegible] It having been learned that no [illegible] 450 eastern guests will be here the idea [illegible] stand at the corner of First and Alder [illegible] for the reception [illegible] large [illegible] Other [illegible] of the parade will be [illegible] the guests [illegible] and the money [illegible] for the stand [illegible] added to the street [illegible] The chairman reported that they [illegible] of public and private vehicles insufficient [illegible] to meet the wants of the guests. The [illegible] committee reported that they had a force [illegible] at work [illegible] the street [illegible] for the pavilion. The finance committee [illegible] that they had been [illegible] to see what [illegible] and anxious to [illegible] citizens [illegible] to [illegible] and the [illegible] treasurer M [illegible] at the board of trade rooms between [illegible] and [illegible] o'clock.

[illegible] FOR THE DIVES—[illegible] arrest of several [illegible] dealers for selling [illegible] has caused [illegible] excitement among the members of the [illegible] association [illegible] yesterday who pro[illegible] pay their license [illegible] take a license and [illegible] Philip Schmitz [illegible] each of his two [illegible] Emil Jacobs [illegible] seriously of [illegible] parties arrested [illegible] yesterday on [illegible] number more arrests [illegible] remains to be seen [illegible] will be all well [illegible] Chief Watkins [illegible] arresting every [illegible] keep on a resting [illegible] detected in [illegible] association appears to [illegible] that they [illegible] a number of disreputable places and will [illegible] these to their fate [illegible] they will be [illegible] disposed of.

[illegible] GATHERING—[illegible] happy young [illegible] assembled at Turn Hall last evening to [illegible] [illegible] the children's [illegible] which was given [illegible] the auspices of several ladies and gentlemen [illegible] known in Portland society. The ball room was [illegible] decorated, and [illegible] present were Misses [illegible] Catherine [illegible] Margaret Greer, [illegible] Edith Taylor, [illegible] Lewis, Nita Brooks, [illegible] Nettie William[illegible], Ada McCraken, [illegible] Carey Harrison, Frank Effinger, [illegible] Willie Alt, Fred [illegible] Lieut [illegible] Brooke, [illegible] Dead [illegible] Wygant [illegible] Davis, Burt [illegible] Palmer, Wheel[illegible] White and Masters Chester Dolph, Ray [illegible] and others. A thoroughly enjoyable evening [illegible] was passed by all present, including several [illegible] who assembled to witness the [illegible].

[illegible] GERMANS WILL CELEBRATE—It has been [illegible] by the Turn Verein, the Verein Eintracht, [illegible] the German Aid Society to participate in the [illegible] celebration over the completion of the [illegible] Pacific and a meeting to discuss the best [illegible] which they can [illegible] unite in a proper [illegible] is called for Sunday afternoon. Mr Villard [illegible] a member of the [illegible] society for two years [illegible] has always held a high place in the estima[illegible] of his fellow-countrymen here. They propose [illegible] him and the distinguished subjects [illegible] [illegible] any [illegible] the [illegible] Whatever may [illegible] the programme adopted it is certain that the [illegible] will make a great feature of their display.

[illegible] FOR RAIN—During the past three [illegible] only fifteen-hundredths of an inch of rain [illegible] fallen. Early in the summer every one was [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] had reached the [illegible] [illegible] no service [illegible] themselves to [illegible] [illegible] harvest is over and [illegible] well along toward completion and [illegible] of visitors from foreign parts are [illegible] people are becoming anxious again for rain [illegible] the slightest indication of rain at present [illegible] is but faint hope that we shall be [illegible] with any before the approaching celebr[illegible] are [illegible] be a pleasant shower on that occasion.

[illegible]—The Dunn boy, who was sent to jail for [illegible] from Kalberer [illegible] safe and from [illegible] is at large to consort with [illegible] Sally Haight and enjoy himself with [illegible] who are his associates was arrested [illegible] for assault on the [illegible] the city prison and the [illegible] of Chief Watkins [illegible] without accomplishing [illegible] obliged to [illegible] [illegible] Dunn is [illegible] known to be a [illegible] control of any one he may at once [illegible] the degree [illegible] to the insane asylum for the [illegible]

[illegible]—Wells Fargo & Co's detective [illegible] San Francisco Mr Hume who came up here [illegible] into the matter of the late stage robberies [illegible] to obtain some photographs of [illegible] [illegible] by the [illegible] [illegible] has been at [illegible] the three parties [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that they would [illegible] the picture taken [illegible] When [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Todd has been engaged in other [illegible] and without the [illegible] to have him [illegible]

[illegible]—A big, dirty loafer, who gave the [illegible] name of John Devine, was arrested last [illegible] the banner [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for the benefit of such a [illegible]

[illegible] FRANKLIN—The attention of the [illegible] committee is called to the [illegible] between Oak and D streets [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a whopper [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] COURT—Judge De Ley will deliver [illegible] in this court [illegible] morning on the motion [illegible] and to arrest of judgment in the case [illegible] vs. Barnhart.

THE SILVER LINING—Our citizens are entreated to comfort themselves for the misery caused by the prevailing smoke with the consoling idea that there are chemical properties in it which counteract malaria and being smothered prevents us from being shaken to death with the ague. [illegible] creosote and pyroligneous acid may be healthy but no seem to be get flow an overdose and are in danger of living too long. It would be more comfortable if a fellow could be smoked in a regular smoke house for a [illegible] but enough he could step down and out but there is no rest for the wicked in the present style of [illegible] bacon.

SCARCITY OF POTATOES—From the present outlook it seems that we shall be obliged to import fruit and vegetables from California all the year through. The potato crop in this vicinity is very poor. The principal supply of the city comes from Lewis [illegible] valley and there this year they are small and [illegible] [illegible] One farmer there who has thirty acres of [illegible] to land a year or two received $[illegible] for his crop [illegible] this year he will receive $180. The crop in places [illegible] the valley may prove better but there is but little hope of any adequate supply.

[illegible] FIREWORKS—Mayor Chapman stated at the meeting of the celebration committee yesterday that he should issue a proclamation forbidding the use of fireworks or explosives of any kind whatever on the night of the illumination. This is a very commendable action as the city will be crowded with strangers on that occasion and it is very desirable that they should be spared the annoyance of being [illegible] by bombs on their [illegible] [illegible] that there should be as little danger as possible from fire.

FOR WARREN SIGNAL STATIONS—Two fine barometers were shipped yesterday by Sergeant Beard of the signal service station here to Tatoosh Island where it has been decided to establish a signal station. As this island is the most westerly point of the [illegible] [illegible] miles outside of Alaska and is now connected with the main land by telegraph it is a very good place for a signal station. The observer [illegible] be able to give timely warning of the approach of northwesterly storms and other items of interest.

[illegible]—George Wiseman was arraigned in the police court yesterday on a charge of attempting to introduce spirituous liquors into the city jail. He, like a wise man, entered a plea of not guilty. It was proven that Frank Wheeler the fellow who shot [illegible] was sent to a drug store to get a bottle [illegible] cough mixture labeled [illegible] This was filled with rum [illegible] to [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] for the prisoner [illegible] [illegible] there be [illegible] [illegible] Wiseman's guilt he was fined [illegible]

IN THE CHORUS—At the request of School Superintendent Crawford and upon the [illegible] the second rehearsal of school children for the grand chorus in honor of the opening of the Transcontinental railroad will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Masonic hall. It is especially desired that all the public school children be present and particularly the good voices. The words of the song will be printed and Professor Jackson will conduct the rehearsal.

REWARD OFFERED—The Dalles City and Wasco county offer a reward of $850 for the apprehension of John Clanton, who murdered Millard Stout at the Jackson house on Tuesday the 21st. The following is a full description of Clanton: He is about 28 years old 5 feet 9 inches in height, dark complexion, scar on his forehead above one eye, dressed in blue pants and vest, black felt hat, is robust and strong and weighs about 175 pounds.

SERIOUS STABBING AFFRAY.

Joe McCabb, a Laborer, Cuts Dick Burns, a Blacksmith—The Injuries Probably Fatal

About half past seven last night Dick Burns a [illegible] man employed in the yard of the O R & N Co below Albina went aboard the Albina ferry lying on the east side with three friends. All were [illegible] and somewhat inclined to be quarrelsome. They brushed up against Jack McCabb a laborer employed on the new mill building and unfriendly words followed. The party came to blows when McCabb drew a dirk having a blade six inches long, and cut Burns three times. One cut was upon the left arm midway between the shoulder and elbow through the muscles about four inches long; another cut over the left nipple, struck a rib, glanced up about five inches and stopped at the collar bone. The third and most dangerous one was at the point of the breast bone, penetrating the cavity [illegible] touching the right lung. It is was a deep [illegible] [illegible] that after the assailant had [illegible] the thrust he twisted the knife. He was [illegible] up and carried to his home in Mrs Bea[illegible] boarding house at Albina, where a [illegible] appliances were used to stop excessive hemorrhage until the arrival of medical aid. Dr W B Saylor of this city was summoned and dressed the wounds. He [illegible] the probability of a fatal result is greater than the chances for recovery.

McCabb was arrested by [illegible] and taken to the county jail. He claims that [illegible] in self defense as he was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] McCabb was [illegible] [illegible] with any of the [illegible]

GENERAL SHERMAN.

Arrival of the General of the Army at Vancouver Barracks—Programme of His Visit Here

General Wm T Sherman whose coming has been looked for with so much interest for the past few weeks arrived at Vancouver yesterday afternoon and will remain there till to-morrow evening. The general with his party of three—Associate Justice Gray of the U S supreme court, Col Richard I Dodge and Lieut Tillotson aid de camp—arrived in this department about a month ago. At Fort Coeur d'Alene they were met by the department commander Gen Miles and Dr J [illegible] M [illegible] medical director of the department, who with a military escort conducted them northward across the Colville and Moses country to the Fraser river in British Columbia, down which they journeyed to the straits of Fuca and to Victoria. Here they were joined by Capt Frank D Baldwin. From Victoria they traveled down the Sound in the revenue cutter Corwin stopping at Port Townsend and Seattle. At the latter place a reception remarkable for its enthusiasm was given the general and his friends on Wednesday night. At New Tacoma the party took the regular train yesterday morning—Gen Sherman having a special train which was cordially tendered by the Northern Pacific management—and arrived at Kalama shortly after noon. The steamer Lurline having on board Major Kimball quartermaster [illegible] a delegation of the G A R of this city composed of [illegible] Arnold [illegible] Caukin, [illegible] M Master [illegible] [illegible] Summers [illegible] Burbank, E R Nerrin, [illegible] C DuBois, D D Neer, [illegible] W Allen Major T C Bell and John Gelle[illegible] of the Vancouver G A R and Lieut Parke of [illegible] [illegible] with the Twenty first regiment band was awaiting and the party came on [illegible] without delay. The Lurline proceeded up the river and arrived at Vancouver barracks about [illegible] o'clock where the party disembarked and were driven to General Miles residence. The passage of the Lurline up the river was marked by many demonstrations of enthusiasm. At Columbia City the whole population was assembled on the river front, and as they gave three cheers two locomotives engaged in construction work joined in the patriotic shriek. At St Helens the people cheered from the shore and the steamer Walla Walla [illegible] dipped her flag and sounded whistle as the Lurline passed. The cable of the greetings the steamer [illegible] replied and the band sent patriotic notes over the waters to the evident delight of those on shore. At the Vancouver landing a score of officers in full dress and a crowd of several hundred people were in waiting. A salute from Colonel Taylor's battery, music by the band and general handshaking formed the military welcome while the enthusiasm of the crowd found vent in respectful cheers.

General Sherman with the friends will remain at Vancouver as the guests of General Miles till to-morrow evening. A review of troops will be the principal feature there to-day and this evening a reception in honor of General Sherman will be given at General Miles residence. Saturday will be spent quietly at the garrison and at 6 o'clock the party will take passage for Portland in one of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's boats, whose service General Sherman has accepted for the occasion. Upon arrival here the party will be driven to the pavilion, where a general reception will take place under the management of the Grand Army of the Republic. At its conclusion the party will proceed to the residence of Senator Dolph where they will remain till Monday night when they leave by steamer for San Francisco. No programme is announced for the entertainment of the party in this city after the general's reception at the pavilion, but it is understood that a dinner will be given in honor of General Sherman and Justice Gray by Senator Dolph on Sunday.

Speaking yesterday of his trip in the northern wilds Gen Sherman said that he has enjoyed every hour of it. The country everywhere, he found enveloped in smoke so that it was impossible to enjoy the scenery. In this particular alone was the trip a disappointment. In interviews with the Indians of the Colville and Moses reservations, and with settlers in the northern region he found that all were well pleased with the settlement of the recent difficulties in that country. The people everywhere had shown great kindness and even enthusiasm in greeting him and this he seemed thoroughly to appreciate. General Sherman looks hale and hearty, a little more grizzled than when here three years ago, but evidently in much better health than then. The trip rough as it has been, was a change and a zest.

An informal meeting of the G A R committee was held on board the steamer Lurline as she came up the river yesterday. It was voted to put the general management of the reception in the hands of Department Commander [illegible] and Messrs S [illegible] Pierce and A L Borthwick were named as a committee on late [illegible] for the reception which will begin at 8:30 o'clock sharp, Saturday evening at the pavilion. The Twenty first regimental band will come over with General Sherman and [illegible] [illegible] at intervals during the reception. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] concert will follow the reception.

WALLA WALLA CELEBRATION

Walla Walla is making active preparations for the reception of the Villard party. At the [illegible] meeting of the citizens and [illegible] committees held at the city hall on Wednesday Mayor Lamont presided. After giving an account of the progress, he announced that the following [illegible] would constitute the citizens' committee: H Parker, P B Johnson, Levi Ankeny, H [illegible] Isaacs, A McCalley, Dement Bros, J F B[illegible], F W Paine, F [illegible] Adams, R R Rees, H C [illegible], [illegible] J M Dewar, Martin [illegible], Hiram Nel[illegible], B Gilliam, [illegible] Chris Maier, O [illegible], J C Smith, M A Carrie, [illegible] Hedy, Chas Russell, Patrick Lyons, [illegible] Nathan [illegible], John Crey, [illegible] Buchanan and the editors of the newspapers of Walla Walla and neighboring towns.

THE STOUT HOMICIDE.

Full Particulars of the Brutal Killing of Millard Stout by John Clanton—The Homicide's Escape

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN]

THE DALLES Aug 21

The chief topic of interest on the streets yesterday was the murder. John Clanton it seems was all prepared for the deed and expected to leave a difficulty. The young man now dead, Millard Stout was standing near the office door when the porter of the Jackson house came out of the dining room. Clanton came in and walked up to Stout but the porter could not hear what was said, more than that they were angrily referring to some debt owed by Clanton to Stout. They were alone (these three) in the office when the partners climbed and the porter could not tell how it was which drew the pistol. I C Smith, the clerk of the hotel came out of the dining room when they began firing and he was positive that [illegible] fired the four last shots and wound up his brutal crime by jumping on the prostrate man and [illegible] with his heels. Mr Richards [illegible] the [illegible] of the pistols as Stout [illegible] [illegible] Stout's trunk a pistol exactly the counterpart was found with all the charges intact. Mr Richards then said he would not have [illegible] to the hotel.

Mr Davis a drayman [illegible] Cathcart rushed into the street in the [illegible] of the [illegible] in full chase after [illegible] who had the shots out. Clanton [illegible] the [illegible] act of jumping and [illegible] [illegible] but was dragged away by Davis [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Frank C[illegible] and S[illegible] employes of the hotel were in the bar room [illegible] the first [illegible] was fired. Running in [illegible] Frank [illegible] grabbed Clanton from behind while Sam [illegible] held the [illegible] Frank [illegible] says their hands were grabbing each other's wrists in such a manner that he [illegible] [illegible] which was which. He [illegible] the pistol away and handing it to Sam Wareham [illegible] that he would [illegible] the shooting. Turning to Davis who was coming in [illegible] he said "It's all right. We've got him," and [illegible] immediately [illegible] However, Clanton [illegible] down and whipped out another pistol [illegible] [illegible] firing the shot [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] probably the one which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] hand as [illegible] [illegible] and in the beginning [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] about two inches from the median line in his stomach went straight back. [illegible] powder burn around the shot. [illegible] in his right side [illegible] heart the [illegible] in the upper part of the [illegible] the left.

Clanton after being dragged off [illegible] rushed out the back way and up the back [illegible] to his room. Noah Brown the night clerk met him in the entry and asked him to give himself up. Clanton replied "They have all threatened my life. I am sorry he is dead. They will shoot me if I go downstairs." Brown rushed down stairs and up street for an officer leaving Clanton in Mr Wilson's hands. Clanton bearing the noise below and [illegible] ing violence to himself jerked away and fled down the back stairs and up to Larsen's stable. M Larsen prevented him from taking a horse from the stable when he jumped on a horse hitched outside and rode off in the direction of Three mile creek. Deputy Sheriff Hawes immediately followed, accompanied by several citizens. After three or four hours search and inquiry it was ascertained that the fleeing man had but a [illegible] [illegible] Livingston's ranch, [illegible] two logs and trusted himself to the mercy of the Columbia rather than the heavy hand of the law. Officers are now out in Washington territory after him.

As Clanton escaped the expiring man was taken into a rear room and Dr Richardson called in but he was past all medical and surgical aid and died in half an hour. Coroner Robbins summoned a jury consisting of Al Bettinger Jr, Jr [illegible] Baldwin, [illegible] Ingraham, B Thurston, J A Brak and Wm Good who will bring in a verdict of willful murder.

The men were about the same age and had been working together here—they were partners before in Montana at Butte City. Clanton was proprietor of the [illegible] blacksmith shop but sold out last Monday. Stout came down from Walla Walla where he had been for a week or two the same [illegible]

OREGON ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN]

Second Day

VANCOUVER Aug 3

The conference opened its session at 8:30 A M with a prayer meeting, led by Rev J N Dennison. At 9 o'clock Bishop Warren took the chair and the minutes of yesterday were read by the secretary J T Wolfe and approved.

The special committee on the division of conference territory reported as follows:

WHEREAS That part of our conference north of the Columbia river and west of the Cascade mountains, is about [illegible] miles square, with a population of [illegible] and is rowing rapidly every week; and

WHEREAS Puget Sound with her 200 miles of coast line [illegible] in this territory; and

WHEREAS There are thousands coming into this particular conference, many of whom are Methodists [illegible] our superior [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and good [illegible]

WHEREAS We need at least for [illegible] preachers to man the work this year [illegible] therefore be it

Resolved That we hereby memorialize our next general conference in 1884 to [illegible] that part of Washington territory north of the Columbia river and west of the Cascade mountains as a separate conference.

Resolved That the said territory when set off be called the Puget Sound conference.

The report of the committee was unanimously adopted [illegible]

On motion of N Doane an invitation was extended to visiting ministers to participate in the discussions of the conference.

Rev J D Driver on behalf of the trustees of the Drain academy [illegible] [illegible] of the academy to the conference [illegible] [illegible] On motion the offer was referred to the committee on education.

Memorial from the Chinese work of California and from the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society asking co-operation in their work was presented and referred to the presiding elders.

The report of the Chinese mission in Portland written in very intelligent English by a Chinaman was referred to the committee on the Chinese.

A Atwood presented the parchments of J W McMillan [illegible] Smith who had withdrawn from the church. They were returned to the proper authorities.

The [illegible] of [illegible] of Mr Judy was presented [illegible] was readmitted into the conference.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 24 1883

DID TILDEN DEFEAT HANCOCK?

The Correspondent of the Hartford "Courant" Goes into Particulars—Light Thrown on an Interesting Political Maneuver

The charges made in the columns of the Hartford Courant of a recent date, that to the machinations and hostility of Samuel J. Tilden was due the defeat of General Hancock in 1880, are corroborated by an exact bill of particulars printed in that paper over the signature of its correspondent, Judge D. C. Birdsall. The following is his letter:

WESTPORT Conn Aug 3 1883

To the Editor of the Courant Your letter calling my attention to an article in the New York Sun of Monday morning is at hand. I had previously seen the article referred to and was amused at the flippant manner in which the Sun attempted to garble and distort facts contained in the mythical interview by drawing public attention to rather [illegible] parts of it. I confess that I was also astonished that an editor of such accomplishment and ability as Mr. Dana should become so incensed at the mythical creature's statements as to permit himself to use the harsh and uncalled for words "lie and unmitigated lie" as often as he did with referring to the interview. Perhaps he would have done so had he known of whom he was writing.

I am glad to absolve you from all secrecy so far as I am concerned but I prefer my own language should be used and therefore ask that you publish this letter as I desire to take the full responsibility for the truth of all that is stated by your correspondent in my interview—which was correctly rendered in your columns—as well as what I now say.

I reiterate the charges—

First—That General Hancock was defeated by the positive acts of the friends of Samuel J. Tilden acting under his directions and with the use of his money in 1880.

Second—That one of his friends reported to me the substance of directions he had received to that end from Mr Tilden on October 2[illegible] 1880 at the headquarters of the National Democratic committee on Wednesday morning October 27 1880 and at the same time told me where the nefarious work would be done exactly as it was stated in my published interview.

Third—That the election returns from the places indicated by that gentleman as stated in the "mythical interview" proved that the work was done effectually.

Fourth That the Sun by infamously deriding General Hancock in the latter part of the campaign as stated by me in the published interview aided materially in securing General Hancock's defeat; and Fifth—That Mr Tilden did not contribute $5,000 or any other sum to the legitimate objects of that campaign.

In confirmation of my first and third charges in addition to the figures given in my interview I now refer to the vote in the counties in the state of New York absolutely managed and controlled by Mr Tilden's friends.

Columbia—Controlled and managed by Henry Tilden, brother of S. J., who resides there. Garfield received 494 majority in 1880. Mr. Tilden received 510 majority—a democratic loss of 1004.

Dutchess—Adjoining under same management. Garfield received 2379 majority; Hayes majority was 399—a democratic loss of 2771.

(I here call attention to the vote of Albany county on the opposite side of the Hudson river managed honestly by Erastus Corning and Congressman Nolan. There Hancock received a majority of 3004, while Tilden's majority in 1876 was but 1160, a democratic gain of 1844.)

Clinton, Essex and Franklin counties—Managed by Smith M. Weed. Garfield's majority was 421; Hayes majority in 1876 was 1388—a democratic loss of 1831.

Delaware—Managed by "Billy" Gordon. Garfield's majority was 974 while Hayes was 695, a democratic loss of 289.

Chemung—Ex-Governor Lucius Robinson manager. Hancock's majority but 1 0[illegible] Tilden's received 493, a loss of [illegible]8.

Cayuga—Managed by Tilden's appointee as state prison inspector. Garfield's majority was [illegible]39 while Hayes was 2837. Democratic loss 4[illegible]9.

Livingston—Managed by Lester B Faulkner. Garfield received 1280; Hayes' majority was 10[illegible]. Democratic loss 2[illegible]7.

St Lawrence—Daniel Magone manager. Garfield's majority was 913; Hayes was [illegible]. Democratic loss [illegible].

Kings—Hugh McLaughlin manager. Tilden's majority was 18,[illegible]90 while General Hancock's was but 9311. Democratic loss 91[illegible]9.

Thus it will be seen that in these eleven counties managed by eight of Mr. Tilden's most trusted friends General Hancock's loss was 15,754. I could pursue this inquiry further but I think these figures are more than sufficient to fully support the charge I make.

For the present my word must suffice to sustain my second charge. The gentleman who gave me the information on October 2[illegible] 1880 sustains a reputation for veracity at least equal to that of Mr. Tilden or the editor of the Sun. For satisfactory reasons I am not yet permitted to give publicity to his name.

In support of the fourth charge I refer to the editorial columns of the Sun during the last two weeks of the campaign of 1880 as containing convincing proof of their truth.

I have never had any other motive in making these statements than that of a life long democrat who desires above all things the success of the party and would see it purged of such characters as have brought defeat upon it as the facts have shown Mr Tilden and his followers to have done. So long as they remain as a controlling element within it, it must expect defeat, and so long as the party recognizes Mr Tilden as a leader after his course towards our candidates in 1880 it will deserve no better fate.

I doubt not but his mouthpiece—the Sun—when it has found that the individual whom you interviewed is not a mythical creature will hunt in its vocabulary of billingsgate language and will strive to abuse and traduce as it has many better men in the past; therefore I may be pardoned in me to say in advance that I have been a democrat all my life; that I made my first political speech for Franklin Pierce in 1852—before I was eligible to vote; that since that time I have spoken under the auspices of both national and state democratic committees through every presidential canvass and in seven states of the Union. The Sun has upon frequent occasions seen fit not only to commend but to eulogize my utterances. I have had the honor of being a member of two national conventions and have had the pleasure of the acquaintance and personal friendship of most of the prominent leaders of my party for the past quarter of a century. Those of them who are living will not doubt the truth of what I have said or the sincerity of my motives. Even Mr Tilden will not, for his will permit him to remember that on the 13th day of November 1874—when he was a candidate for governor of New York—John McKeon then, as now one of the ablest and most honored members of the New York bar and now the district attorney of New York published a letter over his own signature more than two columns in length in the New York Herald giving numerous reasons why Mr Tilden should not receive democratic support. On that day I was visited by three members of the democratic state committee who were Mr. Tilden's friends—one of whom was the gentleman who gave me the information of Mr Tilden's treachery to General Hancock and the democratic party on October 27 1880 which was published in my interview—who requested me to write in the name of Mr Tilden to prepare a reply to Mr McKeon's charges against him which I agreed to on with the understanding that it should not be published until after it was read and approved by Mr Tilden.

Mr. Tilden will not forget that on the following day I took such reply to his house in Gramercy park, where he read it in the presence of two of those gentlemen and myself approved of it fully saying that it was an exhaustive reply that the letter with him and those gentlemen and that it appeared in two columns of the New York Herald on October 23 1874, over my signature under the following heading

SHIELDED BY A FELLOW-[illegible]

JOHN MCKEON'S ATTACK ON MR. TILDEN VIGOROUSLY PARRIED.

A HEARTY DEFENSE

The following reply to the recent letter of the Hon. John McKeon has been prepared at the request of the democratic central committee.

And the editor of the New York Sun will not forget that the editorial columns of that paper were profuse in their praise of that vindication of Mr Tilden and of the author of it and that it quoted extensively from it during the remainder of that canvass.

My chief regret now is that Mr. Tilden's subsequent acts have not sustained the sentiments and expressions contained in that letter.

D. C. BIRDSALL

Incidents in Boston Society

From a Boston Letter

If the German narrows suckers in a dancing hall still more can the absence of introductions detail our social pleasures, for it would be foolish to expect that Boston is yet old enough to enable one to speak to another in a friend's drawing room without being presented. A most amusing instance of the consequence of such fearlessness was a scene between an elderly and a middle-aged lady in a crowded supper room on Beacon street. The younger one had eaten her salad and ices in unbroken silence, so had the elderly woman. As coffee was still to be handed round the first ventured to remark that as the room was very hot, the ice was refreshing.

"Yes" was the long drawn reply coupled with the words "Have I met you before?"

"No" was the amused answer, "perhaps we may never meet again but we fancied we might speak to each other now."

"Yes I am Mrs. B—— of D avenue. And you?"

"I am Mrs. W—— of X street."

"Ah indeed!" The ice is cooling. And the idle lady having satisfied herself that the person had name she had known slowly drifted into a conversation that was more cohesive than the ice.

Many of our elderly young men decline an introduction as they already have such an extensive circle. One such individual was asked to be presented to a lady who was sitting alone. He eyed her back and front and declined. He returned in half an hour saying

"I'll be introduced to her now. I see several [illegible] men have been talking to her. Her profile not bad."

"No" replied the lady. "When I asked you because she was my friend you declined. Now I decline to present you."

One of Boston's oldest families gave a reception. Two scions of other families attended to whom the host said

"I'll introduce you to the ladies of [illegible]," and moved toward them.

"Excuse me" said one of them, "she is less of a pleasant style of beauty it is hardly worth while."

The host bowed in recognition of the fair critic's power adding

"Yes they are my nieces from the country, but I will not trouble you."

No amount of apology would he receive though eagerly proffered. The old gentleman was right. He wished to vindicate the honor of his house.

No one has any right to accept even the most general hospitality unless he accedes to reasonable demands but we are in mortal terror lest any one may call again and we allow him to do as he pleases, which means to seek the attractive girls. Than as every woman has a host of friends who are only delightful when known she is obliged to seem unaware of their value because so many men decline introductions. The society phrase is "I thank you. I see so many there whom I know, that I will not trouble you," and if the hostess insists, then as he tried, "That is, I'll speak to Miss —— and then come back." Woe to that hostess if her persistency continues for she will have to go after the young man, he will never come back to her.

Or high or low or rich or poor
None would foul teeth or breath endure
If they but knew how sure and swift
Was SOZODONT, that peerless gift,
In giving beauty life and tone
To every charm the mouth can own

THE EAST SIDE.

JOE SANDERS HEARD FROM

I. S. Sanders has just received a letter from his son Joseph dated Hull, England July 30. Joe sailed from here the 1st of March last on the ship El Capitan under charge of the master Capt J E Sewell. From the tone of his letter it appears he does not take very kindly to seafaring life and though having experienced some sea sickness confesses that homesickness affects him more and that to him sea life comes very hard. He had poor health during the whole passage, and for three months he was unable to walk through some disease that affected his feet. When able to get around it appears he was subject to ship discipline the same as others, to which it would seem he was constitutionally opposed and complains especially of the four hours watch regulations. They had fair weather during the passage which occupied 140 days and laid at Queenstown three days to discharge whilst. The ship is bound for Philadelphia on her next trip. "Joe" says he has made up his mind what to do when he returns home by which no doubt he means that he [illegible] stay here.

THE STREET COMMISSIONERSHIP

As the result of investigation it has developed that Mr McMillen the street commissioner elect has been a resident of the state but four months which fact clearly disqualifies him from holding a municipal office six months being the minimum time of residence to render a citizen eligible to hold office. In view of this fact a special meeting of the council will take place on Monday evening next when a third and it is hoped a successful attempt will be made to elect a street commissioner.

ESTATE APPRAISED

The estate of John Bell, the asylum baker who died suddenly a few weeks since through an accidental overdose of chloral hydrate, has been appraised at $2300—$1500 real and $800 personal property by G. W. Weir, O. B. Bartel and H. H. Kees, who were appointed for the purpose by the administrator.

NOTES

Another squad arrived home from Long Beach last evening. More will follow to-morrow.

The new school house in Stephens addition is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy at the appointed time.

It is said the officer who was mainly instrumental in securing the election of Mr. McMillen knew positively of his ineligibility, it being his duty at the same time to have informed the council of such fact.

M. Gwinn the contractor was sued in Justice Billings court the other day for debt and judgment being rendered against him he was committed to the county jail in default of payment. This proceeding though questionable, had the desired effect, his wife being induced thereby to procure the means to liquidate the debt and secure his release.

LITTLE JOHNNY

His Account of a Woman and a Mouse—A Question still Unsettled

San Francisco Wasp

This morning me and my mother and Missus Doppy, which has got the red hed just like woodpeckers, both was a standin in the kitchen and their was a mouse and the mouse it skipt up Missus Doppys close like it was to home there an dinner was ready. Missus Doppy she jumped onto a chair and hollered real awrful and held her close up tighter around her ankles that the mouse couldent get out and my mother she hollered too like her hart was broke and cride. Directly my uncle Ned he come in and Missus Doppy she tole him mity lowd for to save her. Uncle Ned he see how it was and he folded his arms and sed Uncle Ned did.

Missus Doppy with the peculier caracter of yure misfortune demands my deepest simpathy the only thing which I could do for you is of such a nature that it would be worse than the mouse.

Missus Doppy she only hollered louder like it [illegible] that she [illegible] but my mother she said [illegible] and Uncle Ned he sate [illegible] so after I had put the mouse [illegible].

In [illegible] Uncle Ned he [illegible] and I pretty sune he [illegible] under it and [illegible] ed out Missus Doppy [illegible] Missus Doppy had tole him [illegible] so what a tryin for to shake out the mouse by jumpin up and down and Uncle Ned he got Mose between his feet [illegible] let him go and he skaly hated up her [illegible] for to catch the mouse. You never see such a fuss in all yure life and wen my father he come in he said he never didnt in his [illegible].

After it was all over an Mose had et the mouse and Missus Doppy lyin piled up in bed [illegible] Uncle Ned he [illegible] and sed wot did he want. And then he sed "Johnny another tune I guess its about the time for me an you to go in an receive the thanks which is due to our valor and devotion to a sucker in a way wich was in distress."

So me and him we went for to see Missus Doppy and Uncle Ned he bowed real polite and begun for to make a speetch tellin her not to mention the [illegible] we done but do any more than our duty but Missus Doppy she sed he was a cruel man and then she bursted out a cryin and I was so sorry I busted out a cryin too and Mose which is the cat he lukked in at the door and seen how things was and he skooted out as hard as ever he could look it. After a wile wen things was cammer Uncle Ned he sed

"Missus Doppy I hope will listen just at to a man wich as Johnny will tel you has been to Injy and everywhere wile be discorpsed at the [illegible] to the matter wich you had under consideration wen you was addressin the house from the chair. Now I begs yure pardon. It is a well known fact in natural history that mice dont bite nobody less you [illegible] an squeeze em tween yure thumb and finger. It is really well understood and has been proved by scientific expeeriments that wen they climb they dont stick in their nails to mount [illegible] however cats may do under the same circumstances. I have figgered this thing out in a dozen languages an I cant find any record of a woman which has been bit or scratch by a mouse a runnin up her [illegible]."

Then Missus Doppy looked at him real sollem out of her eyes and said wot was he a drivin at. Uncle Ned he said

"Yes yes. I'm a comin to that pretty presently and I hope you will excuse me if I handle such a delicate subject with my usual awkwardness just like a [illegible]. But this is wot worries me an Johnny an we would like to be set rite. Now if a mouse went [illegible] rushin up—"

Then Missus Doppy looked at him agin sollemer than before and he got red like turkey cocks wattles and sed

"Missus Doppy as I was about to say wen you interupted me. If a mouse gets where as a gentleman it aint got no business for to be and if it dont bite an it dont scratch now wot hurt can it do? If its a fair question me and Johnny here, we would like to know wot was you afraid of the mouse for?"

I felt mity proud, I can tel you an I spoke up an sed "Yes Missus Doppy me and Uncle Ned we want you to tel us wot it was wich you was afraid the mouse was a goin for to do to you."

Missus Doppy she dident say any thing for a long wile only just put her hands over her face and after a wile asked if we ment to insulter. Then Uncle Ned he rose up and sed

"Come my feller investigator it is clear that the female mind is not in the mood to further the ends of science to-day. And I guess we better push our researches in other quarter particularly as I here yure mother a comin with a scuttle of fresh coals for Missus Doppys head and a bucket of boilin [illegible] for the trail of Mose. Johnny my lad they are all alike—here and in Oakland, and in Injy and everywhere."

Then I asked Uncle Ned wot it was wich was all alike and he [illegible] that a wile and then he spoke up and said "Cats."

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY Aug 23

The past week has been a very dull one so far as the wheat market is concerned. The buoyant feeling which was brought out by the advance in the English market some ten days or fortnight since has gradually subsided and the tone is decidedly easier to-day. Receipts of wheat this month have been exceedingly light from the valley, which has sent less than 100 tons. The eastern section has done better receipts from there footing up over 4600 tons. Offerings on this market are confined almost exclusively to small lots of old wheat which being held above buyers views found no purchasers. Considerable business has been done in the country markets, Walla Walla leading in volume. In the valley but little business is reported, some few loads being taken in by millers as an accommodation. Larger offerings are reported at Walla Walla but holders views are above buyers who are reported as having reduced their bids.

Considerable annoyance has been suffered by shippers through interruption to telegraphic communication. Cables coming through are either late in the day or twenty four hours old. This has unquestionably affected operations as few shippers could be found who would be willing to operate on delayed telegrams. On this subject the San Francisco Commercial News of a late date hits the nail on the head in the following

The greatest annoyance being put upon merchants here by the telegraph company in the dilatory manner with which cables are delivered. Throughout the present week messages have been twenty four hours late and it has been almost impossible to transact business in consequence although the market here and in Liverpool has been in a most favorable condition for active trade. Large sums are being paid for cable messages which are so late in being received and are frequently so incorrect as to make them useless.

Nothing has been done in freights during the past week and appearances indicate that but little new business can be looked for until wheat moves freely. A number of vessels are close at hand which have to be provided for though the majority of them have inward cargoes to discharge which places their lay days a month or so beyond arrival. Shippers feel indisposed to enter into new engagements until the shipping season is further advanced. On the other hand notwithstanding the scarcity of demand and large amount of disengaged tonnage in the river ship owners are firm in their views as to the ultimate result of the freight market. They are much encouraged by the improvement noted in the San Francisco market lately where a considerable number of large carriers have been chartered leaving that market in a better condition than for months. In the river we have 28 043 tons registered. Of this amount 11 448 tons are under charter 4419 wood and 70.0 iron. Two of these vessels have just finished loading salmon. One wheat cargo is nearly completed while several others are ready to take berth. Disengaged we have—wood 16 497 iron 1940. Two iron vessels in the engaged list are open for recharter. The latest arrival is the Br bk Wigtonshire from [illegible] tons from Bremen with inward cargo to Ladlaw & Jo and engaged outward to [illegible] ron Church & Co.

Registered tonnage to arrive 53 508

Oats are quiet and steady and receipts equal the demand.

Mill stuffs are firm and scarce and the California market has still to be drawn on. No Oregon bran or shorts is yet in the market.

Potatoes are dull. The market is fully stocked with California product and very few Oregon potatoes are offering.

Dried fruits are scarce and firm. The market is nearly bare of Oregon apples.

Butter and eggs are firm and in fair demand at unchanged prices.

A good many Oregon peaches have been received this week all of remarkably good quality. They sell much readier than California peaches.

Poultry a slightly weaker.

Hams are very scarce. The best eastern sell readily at 20c.

Good eating apples are scarce. Market overstocked with poor ones.

Receipts for the past twenty hours have been 00 ctls wheat 306 bbls flour [illegible] ctls oats 3[illegible] lbs hides 11 kgs eggs 14 pkgs fruit 5 pkgs butter 14 bbls beer. Also 9[illegible] ctls wheat [illegible] sks potatoes [illegible] lbs wool 2 40 lbs hides 2 [illegible] kgs eggs 325 melons from the east ern section

The Columbia took out 1[illegible] sks (24 881 lbs) barley wool 3[illegible]6 sks (00 5[illegible]0 lbs) eastern Oregon wool, 338 salt hides 15[illegible] calf skins [illegible] sheep pelts 23 dry hides [illegible] bols tierces 10 sks leather 1 sk cattle [illegible] salmon bel[illegible] lies 100 bbls [illegible] 1 case bls blankets [illegible] ca[illegible] 3 cs blood purifier 13 [illegible] and 9100 ft maple lumber $15 000 in treasure

MAINE MEN

From Bath Me we have received under date of May 11 1883 the following statement of George W Harrison, the popular proprietor of The Restaurant. A few years since I was troubled severely with kidney and bladder affection that there was brick dust deposits in my urine and continual desire to urinate with severe darting sharp pains through my bladder and side and again all heavy pressure very tell[illegible] I consulted one of our resident physicians but received no benefit from the treatment, [illegible] that my symptoms indicated Bright's disease, the most dreadful of all diseases. I [illegible] obtain relief speedily or I would be past cure. I consulted my druggist Mr Webber and after hearing my symptoms he recommended the use of Hunt's Remedy, as he knew of many successful and effectual cures by that medicine in cases in Bath. I purchased a bottle and before I had used it I found I had received great benefit. I used it and it relieved me of pain my water became more natural and I began to improve. I continued its use until I was completely cured. I most thankfully [illegible] Hunt's Remedy for restoring health and I cheerfully recommend this most valuable medicine to my friends as [illegible] the relief it has afforded me.

Being well acquainted with Mr George W Harrison at the time of his sickness as referred to in the foregoing testimonial I can certify to the correctness of the statement made by him.

BATH Me, May 1 1883

BLACKSMITH'S TROUBLES.

Having had occasion to use a remedy for kidney troubles I noticed the advertisement in one of the papers of the wonderful cures that Hunt's Remedy had made all over the country. I purchased a bottle at one of our druggists here in Manchester and after using it for [illegible] found that it was helping me wonderfully. [illegible] bottle has cured me completely. I have not felt so well in years and [illegible] can truly say that Hunt's Remedy is a medicine that has real merit and I do not hesitate to recommend it to the public in general.

GENTLEMEN I have sold WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY for over thirteen years and with the very best of results. I consider it one of the best if not the best remedy for COUGHS, COLDS and all LUNG COMPLAINTS. I can use and heartily recommend it to any one troubled with diseases of the Throat and Lungs. It gives quick relief and almost general satisfaction. It is the standard remedy of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. Yours respectfully

MERCURY

Has been more destructive to human health and life than war, pestilence and famine combined. [illegible] said a distinguished writer many years ago, and it is as true to-day as then. The poor victim of Blood Disease is drugged with Mercury, the malady is [illegible] closed with iodides to cure him of the Mercurial Poisoning. But instead of any relief the first breaks down his general health and makes him a cripple, and the other ruins his digestive organs. To those afflicted in this way Swift's Specific is the greatest boon on earth, and is worth more than its weight in gold. It contains no mercury or potash, but tones up the system and brings the sufferer back to health and happiness. Every person who has ever been salivated should by all means take a thorough course of this remedy.

J. Fergus Swift, [illegible] Georgia.

I have known of [illegible] a colored man who was badly diseased. He suffered with [illegible] had contracted a vile case of Blood Poison, and had been treated by [illegible] physicians, all failing to cure him. I treated him with Swift's Specific and he is now [illegible] and has not had a symptom of the disease since.

RAILROAD RUMORS

Some Changes and Proposed Changes [illegible] likely to Influence the Stock Marke[illegible]

NEW YORK Aug 24—The Evening Post sa[illegible] several important facts as well as rumors of [illegible] that may be more definite soon must soon [illegible] affect not only upon the stocks to which the[illegible] but to the whole market. The first of these [illegible] announcement of completion of the northern [illegible] railroad and the fact that a train of car[illegible] with Oregon wheat will at once leave the [illegible] end of the line for the Atlantic states. T[illegible] completion of this great enterprise begun [illegible] years ago is of great importance but the mo[illegible] of grain from Oregon to the Atlantic by the [illegible] Northern Pacific and from Southern California [illegible] Orleans indicates an era not only in the [illegible] business but in shipping interests.

There are also and have been for some t[illegible] rumors of an alliance of some sort between the [illegible] and the Gould interest in the sou[illegible] whatever foundation there may [illegible] case it is plain that it [illegible] for the general profit of all concerned. S[illegible] rumors in regard to the Denver and Rio [illegible] probably originated in the difficulty the Den[illegible] Rio Grande Western Company finds in raisin[illegible] pay the September semi annual interes[illegible] $15 000 first mortgage bonds. The Denv[illegible] Rio Grande Western is leased to the Denver [illegible] Grande at a rental of 40 per cent of its [illegible] receipts but if that is insufficient to pay the [illegible] its bonds the Denver and Rio Grande gu[illegible] the deficiency. It is alleged that the Den[illegible] Rio Grande Western has made a demand to h[illegible] deficiency whatever it may be made up [illegible] by its September interest. It seems not [illegible] possible that these facts may lead to the transf[illegible] Denver and Rio Grande to either the Den[illegible] Quincy or the Union Pacific
